

TRADE RELEASE

12 October 2021

Following the announcement of the Fijian Government’s tourism re-opening plan, Virgin Australia will bring forward the resumption of flights between Australia and Fiji from 23 December 2021 to 16 December 2021, to better align with the start of the summer holiday period.

The inaugural short-haul international service to Nadi will depart Sydney on 16 December 2021 and will be a significant milestone for the relaunched Virgin Australia and New South Wales residents who have spent many of the past few months in lockdown.

Initially, Virgin Australia will operate daily return services to Nadi from Melbourne and Sydney and three weekly return services from Brisbane. Sydney-Nadi services will increase to double-daily from 23 December 2021 to give travellers even more opportunity to experience a tropical holiday for the festive season and summer holidays.

Virgin Australia's Fiji Schedule

Route	Frequency	Commencement date
Sydney – Nadi	Daily return services from 16 December 2021, increasing to double daily return services from 23 December 2021	16 December 2021
Melbourne – Nadi	4 return services per week from 17 December 2021, increasing to daily return services from 23 December 2021	17 December 2021
Brisbane – Nadi	Up to 3 return services per	18 December 2021

Virgin Australia international and domestic airfares can be purchased using Future Flight Credits and travel credits.

And like all Virgin Australia fares, our international flights include full flexibility for travel to 28 February 2022*, so our customers can book with confidence knowing they can change the date of travel if they need to.

Fares are on sale now and can be booked through your GDS.

New Domestic Routes

Virgin Australia continues to expand its domestic network launching four new services in time for the summer holidays.

Scheduled to take off in December, the new direct services will go on sale from today, allowing more than 25,000 passengers per month to fly between Cairns, Gold Coast, Sunshine Coast, Hobart, Launceston and Adelaide. The new services will provide a boost to local business and the tourism sector, while allowing more Virgin Australia team members to return to the skies.

Of the new routes is the first commercial service connecting Launceston and the Gold Coast in two decades, which will operate three times per week, and allow for up to 4,224 additional passengers each month to fly directly between the two cities.
